Committee Meeting

Sara has been a Client Advisory Committee (CAC) co-chair since 2018. Hear from Sara herself:

"I have learned from being a part of the CAC that I have a voice. All self-advocates do. CAC allows clients to speak up. It is a place where clients can bring their questions and areas of concern. CAC will research and bring in qualified speakers to educate us all. NBRC and our Executive Director help support our CAC meetings, but client participation is what leads our discussions. The more clients we have involved, the better. I want to add that CAC is a place to socially gather and make new friends. Being involved is FUN!"
